Nativity comes to life again on Bethel common Changing times are reflected in the role of school bus drivers

There may have been no snow, but there was plenty of Christmas spirit Sunday evening at the annual Living Nativity on the Bethel Common. Renee and Grayson Wakefield and their daughter, Gracie, played the roles of Mary, Joseph and the baby Jesus. Gracie, born in January, spent several of the first months of her life in a Boston hospital being treated for a medical condition with which she was born. Pictured with the Wakefields (Grayson is in the dark background) are angels, from left: Kaiya Corriveau, Tracy Gibbs, Cassidy Webster, Hayley Peterson, Alivia Chappie and Claire Webster.

This time of year, it's still dark when Sandra Gunther, a veteran SAD44 school bus driver, begins her walk-around at the bus garage.

She circles her 78-passenger bus, No. 2, checking the lights, tire pressure, radio, horn; making sure everything works right before the 60 children for whom she is responsible get on board.

Gunther starts her route about 6:50 a.m. She radios the garage to say she's on the road.

Gunther travels Vernon Street, Paradise Road and Bethel village, collecting kindergarteners through 12th graders.

One of her early stops is on Vernon Street, where she picks up McKinley Braley and Nicole Berry. They board the bus every morning with a cheery "Good morning, Sandra Gunther," at the insistence of Nathalie Berry, Nicole's mom.

"We love Sandra," said Berry and Penny Braley, McKinley's mom. Braley said one day her son was picked on by another child on the bus. Gunther called Penny later to make sure he was feeling all right.

"[Bus drivers are] like extended family," said Berry.

Sometimes a youngster boarding the bus will get an embrace from Gunther.

"There are times when a child needs a hug," she said.

There are other times when they need discipline. Sometimes the kids push, grab someone's hat, or yell at each other. Usually a stern word will take care of the situation.

Sometimes it won't, and the offender may be "written up." It's happening more often this year, she said. "I usually try to School bus drivers, said former SAD44 transportation manager Burnie Rice, "aren't here just for the money."

The hourly pay ranges from just under $11 an hour for a beginning driver to $12.25 for those with 10 years or more of experience. While many drivers get health benefits, most drivers average only 20 to 25 hours a week. They net around $175 to $225 a week.

Because of the split schedule, "there aren't people knocking down the door to be bus drivers," said Mike Kelly, the current transportation supervisor.

He succeeded Rice this fall.

Many of the drivers have worked for SAD44 for a long time. "They care a lot," said Kelly. "They take the personal safety of the students very seriously."

Two Bethel girls to lead off the Rose Parade

By ALISON ALOISIO

On New Year's Day two Bethel girls will ride the lead float in the Tournament of Roses Parade.

Kelsey Gamble and Tamara Isham, both students at Gould Academy, were chosen as Maine's two representatives in the National Anthem Project Honors Choir.

The project promotes school music programs, where most Americans learn the Star Spangled Banner. Recent surveys have shown two out of three Americans don't know the words to the song.

The float features an American Bald Eagle carrying two American flags in its talons.

The choir — together with the singing group the Oak Ridge Boys — will sing the National Anthem and other songs during the parade.

The girls will also help decorate the float and participate in activities in and around Pasadena and Los Angeles during the holiday season.

They are expected to have the music ready by the time they arrive in Los Angeles on the Dec. 28, and will be busy until they leave on Jan. 2.

They will also sing at Disneyland, and will make a recording as a group.

The girls were encouraged to apply for the trip by their music instructor, Scot Fuller.

"The application process included a recommendation from

Calendar's art and diary entries picture life on West Paris farmstead

By MICHAEL DANIELS

For nearly two centuries a four-story, timber frame barn has stood prominently just below the crest of Stearns Hill in West Paris; but over those years time and the New England weather have taken their toll.

Now, if the barn is to continue to grace the hill long into the twenty-first century, it will need some help.

The Maine Historic Preservation Commission is willing to put $10,000 toward initial restoration work, but only if the barn's present owner can match that in local funding.

The owner, Ellen Gibson, hopes the sale of a commemorative calendar will enable her to make that match.

Sales proceeds will help restore the barn at Stearn's Hill Farm.

The barn was built by William Stearns Jr. sometime around 1817. It, along with the rest of farmstead, then passed down through several generations of the family.

In 2003 Gibson purchased the farm from her uncle and aunt, William H. and Jane Porter Gibson, who had lived there since 1971, when they had purchased the farm from Ellen's grandparents.

Prior to 2003, Ellen herself had not lived on the farm herself, but she had visited frequently both as a child and during the three decades she spent in California following her graduation from Oxford Hills High School in 1973.

Now, she lives year round on the farm, while her husband, Robert Long, divides his time

Attorney contends accused Bethel man takes 'adequate' care of his animals

By ALISON ALOISIO

The attorney for a Bethel man facing criminal charges for animal cruelty claims animal officials have been unfair in dealing with his client.

Attorney David Whittier of South Paris represents Larry Smith. In August, Smith had seven charges — five criminal and two civil — brought against him in connection with his treatment of his horses and cows.

The charges were filed by Mac McCormick, Bethel's animal control officer, who was advised on the case by veterinarian Chris Fraser of the Maine Dept. of Agriculture's Animal Welfare Program.

Smith was scheduled for trial in Rumford court on Dec. 11, but Whittier requested and received a continuance until March.

The criminal charges are Class E misdemeanors, Whittier said. Each has a potential

VACATION HOME BURNS

A fire Saturday morning destroyed much of a two-story house on Timberline Drive in Newry, at Sunday River Ski Resort. A neighbor saw smoke coming from the house, ran over and pounded on the door. Only a dog was home at the time, and the neighbor freed him. Renters were skiing when the fire broke out, at around 10 a.m. The home is owned by Charles Jackson, who lives in Norfolk, Va., according to Newry Fire Chief Gary Wright. The fire started in a second-floor bedroom, but the ignition area was too badly burned to pinpoint the cause, according to Bruce Pierce, assistant chief. The top floor was a total loss and the rest of the house sustained substantial water and smoke damage. In addition to Newry, firefighters from Bethel, Greenwood, Woodstock, Andover and Mexico also responded, while Gilead stood by for other coverage. About 20 fire trucks and other rescue vehicles were on the scene.

ONLY ADDING TO THE PROBLEM

To the Editor:

One of the most difficult problems facing Mainers today is the high cost of owning a home — taxes.

One of the things we need most of all is for our legislators, be they local or in Augusta, is to find a way to reduce the tax burden on Maine citizens. This isn't happening. On the contrary we have a freshman representative from our area, a representative who has yet to sit in his first legislative session, intending to put forth a bill that would allow the legislators to increase the tax rate on people who live in unorganized territory.

People move to unorganized territory, in many cases, just for that reason. They know that they won't get the same fast response that we enjoy in Bethel if we need the police, the fire department or any other government response whatever. They agree that their kids will spend more time on the bus to get to school, they will normally have to drive further to shop for the home, and in general with the exception of a better tax rate they are more inconvenienced than those of us who live in and around town.

While I'm no fan of how much we have to pay in taxes because we live in an organized town, I don't see the solution in raising the taxes for people who don't live in an organized town.

If Representative Carter wants to help the people in our area and across the state then I would suggest to him that he find ways to cut the wasteful spending practices of the ruling party in Augusta and find ways to take the tax burden off the people.

If he doesn't, then it will be the same "tax and spend" policy that has put Maine in the unenviable position of being the highest tax state in the country and he will have only added to the problem.

MILITARY FUNERAL HONORS

To the Editor:

My name is Frank Norwood. I am the Maine military funeral honors coordinator. In conjunction with the Maine Army National Guard, I coordinate Military Funeral Honors for the veterans of Maine.

The Maine Military Funeral Honors Program is in place and has been providing appropriate military funeral honors to Maine's veterans for two years. According to the Maine Veterans Administration, Maine is losing approximately 3,800 of our veterans per year. This number is not expected to decrease until the year 2030. We have performed nearly 1,500 military funeral honors ceremonies throughout the state of Maine since October 2004. Many veterans are being interred without their final recognition. I would like to correct this situation by combining efforts with all Maine news outlets.

The rendering of military funeral honors for United States Armed Forces veterans is a tribute that our veterans and their families justly deserve and, in fact, are entitled to. Section 578 of the National Defense Authorization Act for fiscal year 2000 requires the Department of Defense to provide, upon request, military funeral honors for eligible veterans.

Any person (Active, National Guard, or Reserve) who received an honorable discharge is eligible for military funeral honors.

Veterans who did not receive appropriate military funeral honors may also be honored. This is often difficult for a family to bring up, but the Maine Military Funeral Honors Program is prepared to honor those veterans who were not properly honored in the past.

Veterans, families of veterans, funeral directors and concerned citizens are encouraged to call with any concerns or questions: Frank R. Norwood at 626-7822, 626-7822 (DNA), (800) 958-5967, (703) 901-8531 (cell), or 626-7804 (fax).

FILLED WITH JOY OF THE SEASON

To the Editor:

Once again the community of Bethel has pulled together to act out the Living Nativity held on the Bethel Common. It was a "snowless" evening, but one still filled with the joy of the season. Although the Bethel Alliance Church may help organize the event, it is really the entire community that works together to put it on.

We are glad to be a part of this wonderful evening and wish to extend our thanks to the Bethel Inn and Country Club, Maureen Libby and Jeff Erickson from Sunday River Alpacas, Gould Academy, Dean and Debra Richmond, Carol Duplessis of Pooh Corner Farms, Dottie Boyce, Callie Colby, Cathy Hoy and Drew Webster. We would also like to thank the many people who participated as actors, singers, set-up/tear-down crew and those from the community who attended.

It is a privilege to live in a town where, after 43 years, this is still a yearly event.

On behalf of all those involved in the Living Nativity, I wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Blessed New Year.

Rev. Kevin J. Bellinger

MORNING INSPECTION

SAD44 bus driver Sandra Gunther checks the lights on her bus at the district's bus garage. Gunther arrives to start preparations for her Bethel route at about 6:30 a.m.

handle it on my own. But I'm getting tired of it."

As a result, she tells the pupil, "I'm going to write you up 'til you learn." But, she says, "I really have a good group overall."

Gunther delivers the older kids to Telstar, and at about 8:30, drops off the others at Crescent Park. Then it's back to the bus garage. She walks through the bus looking for anything that may have been left behind — including children — and sweeps the bus and washes the windshield.

At 1:40 p.m., she reverses the routine.

Times have changed
Gunther has been driving off and on for 34 years, beginning in 1969. She's seen a lot of changes since then, in everything from training to discipline to bus communications.

When she first started driving, she said, "You could drive a bus 10 times before even getting a license."

Today, an aspiring driver must complete about 36 to 40 hours of unpaid training provided by SAD44, then spend 40 hours driving with an experienced driver.

There is also more safety training for both drivers and pupils — drills to practice exiting the bus through the rear door, explanations of how to safely board and get off the bus.

And there's more help in staying safe. Twenty or 30 years ago, if the bus broke down on the road, "I'd have to flag down a car," Gunther said. Today, there are bus radios and cell phones.

Gunther has seen other changes that reflect changes in society.

Fears of kidnapping and higher volumes of traffic have led many parents to ask that their children be picked up at their homes. In Bethel, it used to be that she picked up groups of pupils who walked from their homes to two locations — Key Bank and Gould Academy.

Now, "Parents don't want their children walking," Gunther said. "I go up the streets."

On the return trip home, before dropping off the younger children at a house, drivers must be sure someone is home. That may mean looking for a particular car in the driveway, watching for a person to appear, or if there is still uncertainty, sometimes making a cell phone call to the home phone, Gunther said.

Discipline
Discipline has also changed, just as it has for teachers. Drivers can't touch youngsters, or come closer than within about 18 inches of them when speaking sternly, Gunther said. And finger-shaking is prohibited.

When she does speak seriously to a child, the reaction can be different than it was in the earlier days. "Before, if I spoke sternly, they'd pay attention," she said. "Now, they argue back more."

The return two years ago to single bus runs has added to the discipline challenges. With K-12 pupils riding together again, it's more crowded, and everyone can be more irritable.

The drivers make the younger children sit near the front and the high schoolers in the back, said Gunther. That generally prevents the older ones from picking on the younger riders, so most of the problems erupt between pupils of the same ages.

If a pupil must be written up, the student conduct report goes to the school administrator and parent. If a single offense is serious enough, the youngster may be suspended from school.

Gunther said she generally has good support from the parents of her riders on discipline issues, making problems easier to resolve.

"I've had good luck that way," she said. "There are a few parents, their child is always in the right. But parental support is essential. You've got to have good communication between the parents and the school, and the driver is part of the school community."

Restrictions on affection
Not only have societal changes affected the way discipline is doled out, there are also more restrictions now on how drivers can express affection to children.

About six to eight years ago, said Gunther, school systems nationwide banned hugging entirely. But more recently, she said, the pendulum has come back the other way a little.

"You can hug sideways now," she said. "Just not face on."

Despite the changes and new challenges, Gunther says she would recommend the job to others, especially mothers who might want their work hours to coincide with their children's school time.

"I like to see the children's interactions," she said. "I like to joke with them. It's nice to see their little smiles, and hear them say, 'Good morning.' I think it's a great job."

Rice, who supervised the drivers for 12 years, said the turnover rate has typically been low.

But there are just about enough drivers — 29 total — to cover routes and trips.

There are 21 regular school routes, said Kelly. Add to that field and sports trips, which account for about 20 percent of bus outings.

Rice, whose full-time job now is supervising maintenance for the district, still serves as a backup driver. Other spare drivers include two mechanics, two maintenance workers, a custodian, the bus dispatcher and a separate trip/spare driver.

"There aren't any spares on the street you can just call and say, 'Can you do the Gilead run?'" said Rice. "There are days you wonder if there are going to be enough. And this fall has been the worst (for absences due to illness) since I've been here."

Kelly said the health benefits draw some potential driver applicants. The district also provides training, but drivers are not paid until they start working.

Larger school systems are often able to offer employees a full-time job, by combining responsibilities, such as custodial work and driving, Kelly said.

And adopting another tactic used by larger systems, such as neighboring Oxford Hills, the SAD44 bus garage last week parked a bus bearing the banner, "Hiring School Bus Drivers, Full-time and Substitute," next to the road.

ASC sells Steamboat

DENVER, Colo.—The American Skiing Company said Tuesday it has entered into an agreement to sell Steamboat Ski & Resort Corp., one of the nation's largest ski areas, for $265 million in cash to Canadian resort operator Intrawest Corp. The move, which is subject to regulatory approval, would bolster Intrawest's resort holdings in Colorado to three while helping ASC's bottom line. "At the end of the day it's a transaction that is the right thing to do for American Skiing Co. and creates a tremendous amount of value for us," B.J. Fair, president and chief executive officer of American Skiing, told The Associated Press. In a statement, Intrawest President Alex Wasilov said the acquisition fits with the company's strategy to expand through acquisitions. The sale will include the resort at Steamboat Springs about 110 miles northwest of Denver, some real estate assets, a hotel and the company's interest in the Walton Pond Apartments. The privately held Intrawest also agreed to assume $4 million in debt. The deal is expected to close by March. ASC's Fair said proceeds from the sale would be used to reduce outstanding debt and to focus on developing other properties. ASC, which also owns Sunday River and Sugarloaf/USA resorts in Maine; Killington and Mount Snow in Vermont; and the Canyons in Utah announced plans to sell the Steamboat Springs resort in July, citing favorable market conditions. Fair said there was a fair amount of interest in Steamboat Springs this time but declined to identify other interested parties, citing confidentiality agreements. The ski area at Steamboat Springs was founded in 1963 and became well-known as a training ground for U.S. Olympic athletes which has earned it the title of Ski Town USA. Last year, the Steamboat Springs ski area recorded more than 1 million skier visits and was among the top 10 busiest resorts in the United States.

Murphy's contract extended

BETHEL—SAD44 directors last week voted to extend Superintendent Dave Murphy's five-year contract to 2012. The vote followed an executive session to review his job performance. Salary for the extension will be discussed in the future.

Baxter State Park expanded

MILLINOCKET—A 4,000-acre parcel that includes Katahdin Lake has been added to Baxter State Park, fulfilling its benefactor's vision and providing the ultimate holiday gift to the people of Maine, Gov. John Baldacci announced Friday. The announcement followed completion of the purchase Thursday by the Trust for Public Land, which negotiated the deal with Gardner Land Co., led a $14 million private fundraising campaign and transferred the deed to the Baxter State Park Authority. The deal also includes an additional 2,000 acres north of the lake that will be open to hunters and snowmobilers and be managed by the Maine Department of Conservation. Baxter State Park, a 200,000-acre rectangle that includes Mount Katahdin, was donated by former Gov. Percival Baxter decades ago with the proviso that it remain "forever wild." Over the years, Baxter had acquired land for inclusion in the northern Maine park but was never able to add Katahdin Lake, seen as a missing crown jewel. In addition to miles of pristine lake frontage, the addition to the park includes old-growth forest and spectacular views of mile-high Katahdin, the northern terminus of the Appalachian Trail. "We could not think of a better holiday gift for the people of Maine. In a way it is a gift to ourselves, as so many Mainers helped to make this dream a reality," Baldacci said in a statement released prior to announcements in Millinocket and Portland. "I am pleased that we have been able to deliver Katahdin Lake to the people of Maine, and to salute the conservation vision of Governor Baxter."

THE BARN AT STEARNS HILL FARM was built sometime around 1817, and later expanded from four bays to seven. The four-story timber frame building is 45 feet wide and 90 feet long.

between the farm and California, where their youngest son is completing high school.

Aging landmark
The barn Gibson hopes to restore is a 45-by-90-foot building consisting of seven bays. When the original four bays, along with the farmhouse, were built, it was intended to accommodate primarily sheep.

Later more bays were added to provide the space needed for cows and hay.

And over time — as was the case with most such farmsteads — the barn was connected to the farmhouse.

The barn is currently used for storage of historic and modern-day farm and garden implements, carts, wagons, sleighs, maple syrup-making gear, lumber and for hay (which is sold throughout the winter).

Gibson hopes that after the barn is repaired, it will also house sheep, goats, draft horses, pigs and chickens.

She is also looking into developing a museum in the upper story, with a collection of agricultural artifacts, carts, wagons, and sleighs.

First steps
Doing all that will be expensive.

Gibson estimates it will take upwards of $100,000, and several years, to totally restore the structure. The first installment on that long-term investment is $20,000, to pay for stabilizing the barn and rebuilding the foundation on the north side.

The MHPC has awarded Gibson a grant of $10,000, which she must now match if the project is to go forward.

To help do that, Gibson and her family have compiled a 2007 calendar that draws on both the life and the art of the farm.

Each month in the calendar year is illustrated a linoleum print by Jane Porter Gibson, made from 1971 to 2003.

Along with the art are excerpts from the diary of William Child Stearns, who lived on the farm all his life, from 1866 to 1945.

MHPC, said: "Barns are icons of our history, and this calendar captures a heartwarming, long-term relationship between a Maine family, and Maine landscape and a Maine barn."

For Gibson the project is as much about people as it is about a physical structure.

"The barn is a visual structure representing my family and our history," she said. "But more than that, it tells us about early New England, how people lived, and how they adapted to change over time. We are still adapting. Looking back and understanding the past can help us move more mindfully into the future."

Save the Barn on Stearns Hill Farm calendars are on sale at the Bethel Historical Society Museum Shop (824-2908), and through a website, www.stearns-hill-farm.com.

The website shows each month's artwork and tells about the artist, diarist, and the history of the barn.

him, with a focus on their ability to learn music quickly and well, how personable they were and their interest in participating," said Linda Gamble, Kelsey's mother.

Kelsey said she is excited, "but I'm a bit nervous about singing the high notes that are in the music first thing in the morning."

"It'll be interesting to meet new people from all over the country who have vocal experience too. I'll be spending all of December learning the music for the parade. We can't have our music on the float."

"I still can't believe that I'm going to sing at Disneyland," she said. "I've gone there about every other year since I was about three, and always wondered what it would be like to be on their stage."

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

A recent article in the newspaper had the headline, "sense of smell stronger than we thought."

The test to prove this point was done by the University of California-Berkeley with a group of undergraduate students. The student was placed in a field blindfolded and with sound-muffling headphones on. Their task was to crawl around following a chocolate perfume scent. They did exceptionally well according to the testers.

Now, isn't that amazing? Any self-respecting chocoholic could have told them what the results would be. For many of us, being blindfolded and incapacitated by anything short of a coma would not prevent us from following a chocolate scent.

In fact, I think that right now I can smell the aroma of that luscious confection coming from kitchens all over the country.

Great and some not so great cooks all over America are creating Christmas chocolates, cookies and fudge even as I write.

I think chocolate fudge is one of the most popular candies made and consumed at Christmas. I usually make at least one batch for the holidays. I'm quite well known in my circle of family and friends for my fudge disasters.

I'm a good cook; I really am, but the perfect fudge has alluded me for years. Sometimes I make spoon fudge that won't harden no matter what and sometimes I make concrete fudge that is solid as a rock before I even get it in the pan. And, once in a great while I make fudge that comes out okay, though not perfect.

Any self-respecting chocoholic could have told them what the results would be.

But, that really doesn't matter because while I'm making the disaster my house fills with the aroma of melted chocolate. And for me, my entire memory bank of Christmases past is based on the wonderful scents of the season and melted chocolate is but one of them.

When I put my Christmas tree up this past weekend the scent of fresh cut spruce filled my living room and immediately transported me back to trees of my childhood. My father had a knack for picking Charlie Brown Christmas trees from the side of the road. An act that would get him a big fine nowadays, but back then no one paid much attention as long as you didn't chop one down from someone's front yard.

So, I grew up with some pretty pathetic Christmas trees, but to me they were all beautiful and the smell was as strong as it would be from a perfect cultivation.

I don't remember many of the presents I received from under those sad little trees, but I sure remember the smell. And I also remember painstakingly draping the tinsel so carefully over the branches while my brothers just threw it willy-nilly wherever. I remember testing all the lights in an effort to find out which one had burnt out.

The aromas of chocolate chip cookies baking in the oven will take me right back to Christmas vacations long ago. Coming in from playing in the snow, frozen like a Popsicle, into the warmth of the kitchen and my mother's gentle hands warming my cold feet while she fed me cookies with chips still melted from baking.

I love Christmas and I love the good will that people share at this time of the year. I love the wide-eyed anticipation and excitement I see in my grandchildren and I love the warmth of friends and family that fills my home throughout the holidays. But, more than anything else I love the scents of the season that have the power to send me back to a time of wonder and innocence.

The way I see it this is a good time to thank you my dear readers for checking in on me each week through this column and wish you all a wonderful Christmas filled with aromas that take you to happy places. May your holiday be joyous and may all your fudge be perfect!

Merry Christmas.

Smith

penalty of six months in jail and a fine, he said. The charges related to general animal care issues, he said.

In addition to those charges, on Dec. 8 Smith received another summons for allegedly not caring sufficiently for a Belgian foal born that day.

Whittier said last week he is concerned about the publicity and public sentiment surrounding the December and August incidents, and wants his client's side of the story to be heard.

"I can't let Larry get run out of town about this," he said.

The most recent charge against Smith appeared last week in The Citizen, and the earlier ones appeared in August.

Fraser and McCormick said they do not wish to provide more details on the incidents beyond what is contained in the public police report, because Smith's case is still pending in court.

Dec. 8 summons

According to the Dec. 8 incident report in the Bethel Police log, McCormick was called to Smith's Vernon Street pasture at 11:40 a.m. for a report of a newborn foal lying in the snow. It was believed to have been born at about 10 a.m.

According to McCormick's description, the foal was standing when he arrived. A police officer at the scene said the foal had nursed from its mother.

A witness said the animal was wet, and if it did not have shelter soon it could die.

McCormick wrote that from his position on the road, he could not determine the foal's health, or if it was in distress.

The temperature was reportedly 20 degrees with a wind chill of 0. Smith could not be reached, McCormick wrote.

Animal Welfare was notified and updated through the day regarding the foal's condition. After what the report said were numerous attempts to locate Smith, it was decided at 4:30 p.m. that the foal was in immediate danger.

At 7:30 p.m., McCormick served a search warrant on Smith, who had returned, for the foal and mother as evidence in the case.

According to the report, the temperature then was 0 degrees with a wind chill of -10. The animals were removed to a barn on another property.

"The foal's body temperature was below normal, and if left outside in the cold would not have survived," wrote McCormick.

Smith was then given a summons for animal cruelty.

Whittier takes issue with the handling of the situation, noting Fraser did not go to Smith's property herself.

"They overreacted. They didn't give us a chance to fix something, if they really thought it needed fixing," he said. "They took the horses before he had a chance to do anything."

Whittier said Smith had been away in New Hampshire for the day, and was gone about 10 hours. Smith did not expect the foal to be born that soon, Whittier said.

Fraser said Monday that the horses were taken because they had been treated cruelly, having not been provided with adequate shelter and medical care.

She said many factors had been considered in making the decision to seize them. "It was clearly a life-threatening situation," she said.

Whittier claims Fraser overstated the horses' situation.

He said that according to Smith, the mare had had access to both a barn and a small shelter, but chose instead to give birth in the field. Whittier said a horse trainer/breeder he consulted said horses generally prefer to give birth in a pasture.

When Smith returned home, he found that the mare was "sheltering" the foal, which was nestling against her, according to Whittier. "As a rule, horses are equipped for this, and the mother takes care of the foal," he said.

Whittier also questioned whether the temperature that night was as low as stated in the report.

He also claimed that an area veterinarian who examined the horses the day after they were taken had been called by Smith himself, out of concern for his animals.

Fraser said the vet was there at the request of Animal Welfare, and at that point Smith no longer had any say in the animals' care. Whether he requested the vet to see the horses was irrelevant, she said.

August incidents

Whittier also disagrees with the handling of the August incidents involving Smith.

Whittier said one of the charges filed against Smith related to the manner in which he put down a horse.

According to the police report, on Aug. 4 Bethel Police Chief Alan Carr and Officer T.J. Reese responded to Smith's for a report of a horse stuck in the mud.

The horse, lying on its side, kept trying to get up but was unable to, according to the report. Smith was told to either get a vet to examine the animal or to put it down, and Smith put it down, the report said.

According to Whittier, Smith had first called a veterinarian, who told him the horse was more than 20 years old and "it was time" to put it down. Smith then asked whether the vet would do it or if he should, Whittier said.

The vet reportedly told Smith he could do it himself, and Smith then shot the horse, according to Whittier.

Whittier said the police claimed the shot did not instantly kill the animal.

Whittier said Smith disputed that, saying the animal had been killed humanely.

The lawyer said, however, that Smith did fire a second shot. Whittier said he did not know the caliber of the weapon used.

Living conditions

A day later, McCormick described going to Smith's property and finding cows and horses living in dirty conditions.

In addition to the charges filed in August, Fraser said Smith was at that time also given some specific "issues" to fix.

Whittier said those included cleaning a barn and fixing its entrance, clearing a pasture, removing manure from a barn and pasture, fixing a fence, trimming horses' hooves and providing the animals with food and water.

Whittier said Smith's standards of care may not be at the level of some animal owners.

But he said his client has several veterinarians whom he contacts "on a regular basis." And one of the vets, to whom Whittier said he spoke, "said [Smith] takes adequate care. Not the best, but the care is adequate."

Whittier said he asked for a continuance on the court case to allow him to take a deposition from one of the vets regarding Smith's general care of his animals.

Whittier said Smith considers them pets. "There's no question he cares about the animals," Whittier said.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Wednesday, Dec. 20

At 1:48 a.m. on the West Bethel Road Officer Travis Fillmore arrested William J. Murray, 38, of Pembroke for operating after suspension.

Monday, Dec. 18

At 3:40 a.m. Officer Travis Fillmore responded to a residence for a 911 hangup call. No one was home, and the call was believed to be a phone line malfunction.

At 4:40 p.m. Officer Mac McCormick responded to the Mayville Road for a car-deer accident. There was no damage to the vehicle.

At 7:50 p.m. Officer Mac McCormick took a report of telephone harassment.

Sunday, Dec. 17

At 10:35 p.m. Lt. S.R. White responded to a business alarm. It was found an employee had reset the alarm.

Saturday, Dec. 16

At 5:28 a.m. Officer Mac McCormick responded to Main Street for a business alarm. The building was secure.

Friday, Dec. 15

At 2:45 a.m. on the West Bethel Road Lt. S.R. White arrested Brandon Palmer, 24, of Bethel on warrants.

At 4 p.m. Officer Travis Fillmore responded to a residence for a 911 hangup call. No one appeared to be home, and nothing was out of order.

At 4:15 p.m. Officer Travis Fillmore assisted a county deputy with a domestic assault incident on the Sunday River Road.

Thursday, Dec. 14

At 2:40 p.m. Chief Alan Carr took a report of telephone harassment.

Wednesday, Dec. 13

At 12:15 p.m. Officer Phil Taylor took a harassment report.

Tuesday, Dec. 12

At 4:15 p.m. Officer Jack Taylor took a report of an iPod stolen from a Church Street location.

Monday, Dec. 11

At 3 p.m. Officer Mac McCormick responded to Vernon Street for a report of a horse that sounded like it was in distress. On arrival the officer could not see the animal but could hear it in a barn. The animal did not sound in distress, but rather that it wanted to get out of the barn. An attempt to locate the owner was unsuccessful. The officer cleared.

At 3:12 p.m. Officer Phil Taylor responded to the East Bethel Road for a two-vehicle property-damage accident.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log. It lists cases reported in the log of adults being arrested or issued a summons in the 10 days prior to the newspaper's publication, but does not include all reports of police activity, such as routine speeding tickets and other civil violations. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

AUBURN BRUNSWICK S. PORTLAND WALDOBORO

BETHEL OFFICER GRADUATES—Officer T.J. Reese (second from left) graduated Friday from the Maine Criminal Justice Academy in Vassalboro. Reese was among 59 graduates who completed 18 weeks of study and training. Among the training topics were criminal and traffic law, domestic violence, firearms, first aid, crime scene processing, sexual assault and emergency vehicle operation. Reese received a special award for being the best in the class in emergency vehicle operation (driving a cruiser through an obstacle course). Bethel's other three full-time officers, who are also criminal justice academy graduates, are shown here with Reese after the ceremony. They are, from left: Lt. S.R. White, Officer Mac McCormick and Chief Alan Carr. It is believed this is the first time in department history that all four full-time officers are police academy grads, Town Manager Scott Cole said.

Edie and Charlie Seashore of Columbia, Md., will be arriving on Wednesday for the Holidays. Kimberley from California with her family and Becky Lee and her family from Connecticut will join them with five grandchildren.

Emily Berce is leaving on Sunday for a vacation with her family in Wisconsin.

December birthdays are: Musa Brown (5th), Jane Young (8th), Alberta Merrill (13th), Mary Paine (14th), Danna Brown and Vicky Myers (18th), Sarah Stevens (23rd), Brian Hansom (26th), Edna York (27th), Shirley Powell and Bill Cousins (28th), Frank Lowell (30th).

A public installation was held on Thursday evening at Bethel Masonic Lodge 97 with a delicious dinner enjoyed by members and guests.

Kate and Nate Wight hosted a gathering at their home in Bolsters Mills on Saturday to celebrate her mother's birthday. Attending were Danna and George Nickerson, Arlene Brown, Bessie Bennett, and Randy Bennett.

West Bethel
by Lorrie Hoeh

While we're not seeing any very exciting birds at our feeders, Mike reports that on several occasions the past week or two, he has seen one or more golden-crowned kinglets on his morning walk with Jake. They are tiny, warbler-like birds with a distinctive patch of gold on their pates, thus the name. I just wish they'd come to our yard so that I could see them also.

Jake and I, on our daily walk, have recently spotted no wild life, and few signs thereof, unless you count the beer-bellied can-tossers, or the lazy-backed litterbugs.

I expect that everyone out there is busy with shopping, writing cards, wrapping gifts, baking goodies, and making other holiday preparations. We here at the Hoehstead are similarly occupied. As a result, I find I have very little real news to report. Regrettably, it looks as if our Christmas will be gray-green, instead of white, owing to the April weather we've been having. Lucky you, if you prefer warm to winter.

The Bethel Library recently acquired a book entitled "Monique and the Mango Rains," which I have just finished reading. This is the story of a young woman in the remote village of Namposse-la in Mali, Africa, who is the village midwife and sole medical care provider for the village and surrounding area. It is told by another young woman, an, Kris Holloway, who spent two years as a Peace Corps volunteer, working and learning with Monique, while at the same time, forming a remarkable friendship with her.

I found myself moved to tears more often than not as I learned of how little the people of Namposse-la have, and how harsh their lives are, and how grateful they are for things we take for granted. The villagers there have no electricity, running water, or sanitation, and sometimes not even clean drinking water. They have to depend on a three-month rainy season to grow all their crops and replenish their communal wells.

We in America have so much, and at this season of the year, it is very easy to get caught up in the frenzy of acquisition, spending, and excess. Every once in a while, it helps to get a wake-up call to remind us to count our blessings. This book was one for me. Not only was I impressed by the day-to-day strength and courage of the natives, but also by the selflessness of those who choose to take time from their lives to help others in meaningful ways. I highly recommend "Monique and the Mango Rains" for your reading list.

Whether you celebrate Christmas, Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, or some other holiday, let us join in hoping and praying for Peace on Earth, and the quick return of our brave troops to their homes for good. May your holidays be merry, your hearts filled with gladness, and your homes replete with love.

Gilead
by Lin Chapman

There are just a few more days before Christmas. I finally finished my Christmas shopping this past weekend. I enjoy watching the little grandchildren when they talk about Santa. Their eyes light up and they act extra nice (for a little while).

I am a little late getting out my Christmas cards this year. Seems like there are just too many things that need to get done. I have received a few cards, and it is so nice to hear from all these people. Hugh's sister, Mary Lou, always has a beautiful picture on her cards, and Bob and Judy Bishop's card had a picture of the Nubble Light, the lighthouse in York. Len and Alice Strait took the time to do an informative newsletter with pictures of their Gilead life and some of their granddaughter, Emmalyan, whose parents, Chip and Darla Strait, live in Aspen, Colo. I added a new name to my card list this year when I got a card from Gray and Jill Bujnowski, who also live up on Mt. Tumbledown road along with the Straits.

Hugh and I ran into Norm Buttrick and Cathy McGuire in Gorham, N.H., this past weekend.

My brother, Steve McLain, had a little help from his son, Brad, this past weekend. After they worked on the snow blower, they tackled the chimney. Brad got up on the roof to make sure that the chimney was clean. This is a great safety tip for anyone who burns wood. Check your chimney so the GFD does not have to make a quick trip to your house.

dum held in Gilead on Jan. 9 at the Town Hall from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

All municipalities that are within the Region 9 School of Applied Technology are required to hold this referendum.

Warrants are posted, along with a sample ballot, at the Town Hall, the Transfer Station and the office of the administrative assistant at 2007 North Road.

The article reads as follows: "Shall the Cooperative Board of Region 9 School of Applied Technology be authorized to issue bonds and other evidences of indebtedness for school construction purposes in the name of the Region in an amount not to exceed $4,900,000 to construct and equip an addition and renovations to the Region 9 School of Applied Technology building on the site described below, and to acquire and convey such easements and other real estate interests as may be required for the project?" This article is followed by parts A-D that explain the components, sites and bond assistance from the state.

The site is the existing site of Region 9 and the other real estate interests is adjoining land.

All the municipalities that are included in Region 9 get a chance to vote, since it will have an effect on their taxes.

Planning Board

The January meeting of the Planning Board will be held on Jan. 4 at 7 p.m. at the Gilead Municipal Building/Fire Station.

Selectmen's Meeting

The next regular meeting of the board of selectmen will take place on Jan. 10 at 7 p.m. at the Municipal Building/Fire Station.

Andover

by Melinda Averill

The East Andover Community Club held their Christmas party and meeting on Dec. 11 at the home of Cookie Thew. A delicious buffet was enjoyed and secret pal gifts were exchanged. The club voted to give a donation to Families in Crisis. Two new officers were elected: Sandy Wainwright as treasurer, replacing Violet Swain, and Cookie Thew as Secretary, replacing Lorena Simmons. All of the other officers remain the same as past years. All members except for Violet Swain and one guest were present. A sunshine basket was packed for Violet, along with an appreciation plate for her many years of service to the club. She has been a member since the club was organized in 1938.

Family members of the Swains called Robert and Violet and visited this past week. They heard from Korea, Missouri, New York, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Kentucky, California, Vermont and Maine. It was Violet's 88th birthday. Robert J. II is due from Korea in a few days.

The Andover food pantry would like to thank Sunday River food services for their donation of turkeys. It will enable the pantry to provide eight more families with Christmas dinner.

Congratulations to the following for making the honor roll at Mountain Valley Middle School for the first trimester: Izaak Mills and Erich Zurhorst, seventh grade.

Karen McKay and Bev Swan made a visit last weekend to Bev's sister's, Julie Gribbon, in Doyleston, Pa. Julie is recovering nicely from recent knee surgery.

The town office will be closed on Monday, Dec. 25, and Tuesday, Dec. 26.

Peg and I shopped in Portland on Tuesday. We met up with our brother, Chris, for lunch at a new place behind the mall, called Sebago; it was very good. I would recommend it.

CHRISTMAS FOR FAMILIES COLLECTION—Barry Hallett (second from left) of the Funky Red Barn in Bethel served patrons a buffet-style meal in exchange for a child's gift or cash donation for Christmas for Families. Pictured are some of the items collected.

Happy birthday today to James Farrington, and to Cody Smith on Saturday.

On Sunday, Dec. 24, at the morning service Jane will be baptizing Adam Jerry Gammon, son of Adam and Stephanie Gammon.

Have a Merry Christmas!

Hanover

Last Saturday Melburn (Chink) Hutchins celebrated his 80th birthday with many friends and relatives at the Maine Veterans' Home in South Paris. A good-sized crowd of folks turned out to wish him the best of birthdays. A special treat was entertainment by "Cack" Bean who played his dobro guitar and sang Christmas and other songs. Along with the great food items and four birthday cakes it was a good day for Chink, Rose and all those who stopped by.

A group of six to eight Canada geese have adopted Howard Pond for now. Probably, if the pond freezes over they will move further south. Local folks have enjoyed watching them as they swim along the shore looking for food.

Christmas is just days away now and most folks have finished up their preparations for the big holiday. No doubt there are a few who like to do it all the last minute. It's more fun that way.

Each year we make our personal pick for the best light displays around town. Some of the more impressive ones are Bill and Barbara Gross with lights on their new house and the old farmhouse of the Rodways. But — the one we like the best is an elaborate display of lights and air figures on the Ellis River Road.

We wish everyone the very best of holidays with peace, rest and lots of excitement for the little people.

A TASTE OF CHRISTMAS—There may not be any snow so far this Christmas season, but holiday treats are appearing everywhere. Beverly Sylvester and Matt Clark of the Sudbury Inn created a gingerbread house (right). And at Gould Academy, children of staff members came up with their own gingerbread creations. Above, Lilo Libby-Bean and her mother, Brooke Libby, work on theirs.

la visited David and Joanne Tamminen in Yarmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Smith of Surry; Mr. and Mrs. Rick Merrill and children, Katie and Taylor, of Andover; Wilma Bean; Stacy Coolidge and child, Gabe, of Andover; Gloria Crockett; Esther Fuller of Greenwood; Dori Hallman of Durham visited Arlene Harrington on Dec. 17 for an exchange of gifts.

Millie Jackson attended the Rotary's Christmas dinner for Senior Citizens on Dec. 12. On Dec. 16, Millie had a Christmas dinner in Waterville and on Dec. 17 she had dinner with Carol and Robert Everett in West Bethel. On Dec. 18, Millie and Sandra Gunther had a Christmas dinner at the Subway in Norway/South Paris.

As a lot of people know, my youngest brother, John, had a lung transplant. On Dec. 8, he had open-heart surgery to replace a damaged valve and repair one. He is now doing very well and hopes he can get back to Maine soon.

Earl and Mona Coolidge have moved into their new home. Everything was ready to go on Dec. 15.

Alder River Grange will try for a meeting on Dec. 22, with a 6:30 p.m. potluck supper and the meeting at 7:30 p.m. at Lynn Mason-Courtney's home, #1 at Sudbury Village. Please bring something for the Food Pantry.

I wish everyone a very Merry Christmas. God Bless the Troops.

Mason

by Richard Grover

Did you ever have one of those weeks where you just couldn't seem to get anything done right? Last week was one of those for me. We've been having trouble with one of our toilet tanks continually running through. I've replaced flapper valves and filler pipes before, and always something wasn't quite right. Last week I replaced the filler valve again, and this one has a feature called a "leak sentry." What it does is hold the float valve up until the "flush" handle is tripped; this way, if water is leaking out of the tank, the float doesn't slide down to let more water in. In my tank the feature worked perfectly; shortly after I installed it, the toilet tank was bone dry. This meant that the flapper valve, which I only recently installed, was somehow leaking through, but fortunately not onto the floor. This means that to use this toilet we have to flush it twice, once to let the float valve open, and again after the tank is full and before it empties out again.

Puzzled, I phoned Chris Merrill to see if he had access to a better system. He explained that sometimes those plastic flapper systems can crack if you tighten them too tightly into the bottom of the tank; this lets the water leak out into the bowl undetected.

In tinkering with the toilet, I discovered that the water pump started and would not shut off until we unplugged it, an inconvenient system, to say the least. After unsuccessfully tinkering the pump, I again talked to Chris. We discussed getting a "rebuild kit" to repair the pump; then I said I thought I needed a new pressure tank due to corrosion of the old one. After I confessed that the old system was 17 years old, Chris recommended a whole new system.

I spent much of Saturday installing the new pump and tank, and now I have two or three fittings that leak! Not badly, but occasional drips that dampen a place on the floor. I resolve to re-connect the fittings, this time with more teflon thread tape, but not until after I recover from the first effort. I hate plumbing!

Curtis' dad (Lawrence Grover) is building him an outdoor ice rink. Let's hope some cold weather comes. Isn't it a bummer there is no snow and it is almost Christmas? Last weekend there was one good skating night down on Elsie's pond. Then it got too warm, and it melted a little so we cannot skate.

There was a Christmas celebration at the West Bethel Union Church on Dec. 9. Jessica, Curtis, Coulton and Madeline, along with several of Rupert and Ina and Verna's great-grandchildren attended. We ate, decorated the tree, sang songs and then Santa visited. There are four more days till Christmas!

Upton

Merry Christmas! May Santa fulfill your wildest expectations!

The pictures in the Bethel Citizen on the teas, fairs and the Taste of Bethel were wonderful. The wreaths were outstanding, the bids were high and they were worth it.

Happy Birthday to Sue Angevine, a very nice lady. She is proud of her age, as she should be, because she appears many years younger than "Blank-Blank."

The snow hardly exists and temperatures are way out of line. Fifty degrees and no snow in December is a no-no. Obviously nobody is thinking snow. The birds hardly need to visit the feeders.

There is a female cardinal visiting on East "B" Hill. Sue and Dick Angevine say she is prettier than the male.

The Jenkins Ladies Aid Christmas Party was better than ever. The children all knew their duty to do a presentation and they did with enthusiasm. Partaking in the Christmas presentation was little Abby Chapman singing Jingle Bells. Caleb Chapman and Elissa Dyer did their little Jenkins Fund presentation together. Elissa and Jordan also joined together to do a reading. Jordan and Jessica played the flute, Caitlyn played the lap harp, Jennifer Aldrich, always a favorite, played the flute also. Her brother, Tyler, entertained on the saxophone. Everyone deserves a big round of applause for bringing Christmas cheer to the fifty or so people present.

Congratulations are in order for the members of the Ladies Aid who worked for many months to make it a success. Simone Lavalley, Sue Angvine, Amber Brooke, Jerry Kenney, Debbie Judkins and others did a fine job. Ginny Williamson helped with a lot of projects also. Amber Brooke called the Bingo game. Jerry Kenney, as always, was a great emcee. Upton should be proud of these ladies for carrying on the Spirit of the Jenkins Fund Christmas Party.

We were all saddened by the death of a dear friend, Sally Lavalley. Sally was a lady, respected and loved by all. Larry, her husband, is to be commended for the tender loving care that he gave her.

We wish everyone Happy Holidays. The "Bird of the Week" is on vacation Down South.

met at the home of Alice Hoyt on Monday, Dec. 11, with ten members present.

Second nomination of officers was held: president, Elsie Bonney; senior vice president, Michelle Cary; junior vice president, Amanda Jordan; chaplain, Elena Noyes; treasurer, Alice Hoyt; council members: Marybeth Hoover (#1), Elizabeth Hoover (#2), Helvi Cary (#3); patriotic instructor, Sally Sawyer. Installation of officers will be held on Jan. 8.

It was voted to pay the bills and to put on the Senior Citizens dinner in April. Report of the five new candidates was given by the Investigation Committee.

A.J. Cary received the mystery package. Communications were: Christmas card from some members with dues and receipt for money sent to Togus and card from Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent 8. Thirty-two calls were reported. An exchange of gifts and tasting party followed.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday School at 9:15 a.m., morning worship at 10:30, choir practice at 5 p.m., evening service at 6 p.m. Wednesday evening is prayer meeting at 6:30 and Thursday morning at 9:30 is Ladies Bible Study.

The Bethel Rotary put on a delicious ham dinner for senior citizens from SAD44 on Tuesday, Dec. 12.

A big crowd attended. Many thanks go to them for this. There was also music and gifts for everyone.

Clarabelle Poland gave a picture of an old schoolhouse in Perkins Valley to the Historical Society. Thank you.

The American Legion held a delicious boiled dinner and had their Christmas party on the evening of Dec. 14.

Historical Society
At the December meeting of the Historical Society the members enjoyed a potluck supper and Christmas party. Supper dishes ranged from clam casserole to pumpkin pie. Exchange of gifts and a short meeting was held, chaired by Elaine Roberts.

Curator Larry Billings provided decorations, a small manger set and a Merry Christmas sign. Members planned to get T-shirts to sell for next summer.

Thanks to Ruth Cox for doing the mystery package each meeting. President Elaine SUCCESSFUL FUNDRAISER—The Student Leadership Group at Telstar Middle School recently sponsored a school Spirit Week, which included fundraising for the Christmas for Children charity, sponsored by the Bethel Rotary Club. Through the course of a friendly competition among advisory groups, staff and students raised a total of $842.51 for this cause. Group members pictured are, from left: Charlie Lang, Abbie Goldberg, Jannell Penley, Dylan Coolidge, Tobias Francis, Cynthia Moran Laux. Back: Melissa Prescott, Kate Slattery, Ethan Phelps, James Carter, Taylor Kelley, Molly Siegal, Justyne Myers, Emma Davis, Jamie Steven, Echo Hoyt, Emily Bellinger, Samantha Southam, Jean Lawrence, guidance counselor Joe Bailey. A cookie walk at Gould Academy raised $857 recently. Other area schools, municipal and civic organizations, businesses and individuals have also contributed to the fund.

Roberts does a good job running the meetings. The curator often sends her things he gets in the mail.

Both Mary Billings and Annela Burnham enjoyed having the members from the Baptist Church sing carols to them.

They both mentioned it at the society meeting. Mary gets the key from the society to meet at the Town Conference Room. Much thanks.

Curator Larry enjoyed watching the program on Home and Garden network on decorating the White House. Most people decorate on a far more modest scale, but it is still fun to do.

Christmas decorations are real reasonable at the Village Hardware in West Paris. Larry got some there.

A very Merry Christmas everyone!

Heartfelt sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Georgine Thayer who died this past week at the home of her daughter, Beverly Stevens. Georgine had lived with her daughter's family for several years. She was a very kind and loving person. Besides her daughter, she leaves several grandchildren and family members. She will be missed.

I received a nice Christmas letter from my niece, Beverly Dayton, and family. Beverly comes from this area but has lived in the South for many Warrants for Town Meeting are due in 45 days before the March meeting. Give it to the selectmen for approval/disapprovals first. That should be done by the meeting on the 15th of January at the latest. There is no selectmen's meeting on Jan. 1. They are taking New Year's Day off. Anyone with questions can ask Brenda at the Town Office or talk to a selectman.

My time is short. Have a great Holiday, if I do not see you, and stay warm and healthy.

Albany

by Shella Dyke
Greetings and hello from Albany Township. We're all hoping for a bit of snow for Christmas, and the forecast looks somewhat promising. It's so strange being almost Christmas and still seeing green lawns.

We hope that everyone is all set for Christmas, which is on Monday. We are almost there, although at this writing I had forgotten about sending out Christmas cards. I hope to get my act together and get these out soon. We had gotten our tree from the gentleman who sells them on Vernon Street where Conifer Road is. We're going to try and get it there from now on.

Our very best prayers and wishes for a Merry Christmas filled with love and joy for a most joyous holiday.

God Bless and Keep!

inating committee presented the following slate of officers: president, Nancy Mercer; vice president, Musa Brown; treasurer, Jane Hosterman; assistant treasurer, Barbara Mahler; and secretary, Arlene Lowell.

Thanks go to the committee, Rosabelle Tift, Dot York and Mary Paine for organizing the Christmas Party.

The entertainment was The Yet To Be Named Banjo Band. Santa with elves Rosabelle Tift and Arlene Lowell distributed gifts to members and their guests.

The next meeting will be Jan. 10 at The Sudbury Inn. Meeting will start at 11 a.m. The dinner menu is fish and the price is $7.50. Singer Del Parker will be the entertainment.

Members planning to attend call Nancy Mercer at 824-3350 or Arlene Lowell at 824-2877 before Jan. 5, as reservations are necessary.

Dues are payable at the January meeting. New members are always welcome.

December birthdays are: Musa Brown, Janice Cross, Bertha Foster, Caroline

Gould, Mary Paine, Sarah Stevens and Edna York.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

A potluck supper was put on by auxiliary members on Dec. 7 prior to lighting the three Christmas trees outside. Before the lighting, Auxiliary President Honey Bailey read the names for whom each bulb was purchased.

At the meeting that followed it was voted to give $25 to the Bethel Rotary Club for Christmas for Kids.

On Dec. 14, the annual Christmas party was held after a supper. Gifts and cards were exchanged.

Next meeting is Jan. 4 with Jan. 18 as a snow date.

Mundt-Allen Post

Bethel's Mundt-Allen Post and Unit 81 held their annual Christmas party at the post home on Dec. 12. Fifty-one members and guests attended the event, which featured a potluck dinner put on by the ladies of Unit 81 Auxiliary.

Following dinner, Post Commander Norm Clanton, assisted by past Maine State Legion Commander Gene Bickford, presented a 50-year membership pin and a paid-up-for-life membership to the American Legion to Rodney Jordan of West Bethel.

Rodney then thanked the post and made a few humorous remarks about how things were different now than when he served as post commander "x" years ago.

Unit 81 President Jeri Brooks then introduced guests State Auxiliary President Marlene Angers and 2nd District President Julie Rowe, who both made brief remarks.

The evening was capped off with entertainment by the group Four on a Match. This group of lively ladies, Sue Bartlett, Alda Reynolds, Rosalie Fredericks and Darlene Glover, sing "a cappella" renditions of songs popular in the 1930's and '40's.

It is beyond mid-December, and it is still reasonably warm.

In fact, some days, when the sun shines, it is positively balmy. This is hardly the weather I remember before Christmas. I remember years with no snow, but they always had cold, crisp days and nights. Is global warming really here? Maybe this is the proof everyone has been denying.

During the month of November, Oxford County Recyclable Solid Waste Corporation (OCSWC) processed the following:

Shipped 117 tons of material at an estimated sale value of $8,080.

Estimated cost to trash the same 117 tons material — $9,945 (based on average tipping and hauling fee of $85 per ton).

Estimated avoided cost for November — $18,025.

Recycled 117 tons or 234,000 pounds of material.

Recycled 117 tons of paper product saving 1,989 trees. It takes 17 average sized trees to make one ton of paper.

Shipped 51.34 tons of corrugated cardboard with an estimated sale value of $3,298.

Shipped 65.66 tons of newspapers, magazines and junk mail with an estimated sale value of $4,782.

Congratulations to the following recycling teams:

Tri-Town for packing six out of six cardboard containers weighing in at over 1,000 pounds each.

Stone/Waterford for packing five out of five cardboard containers weighing in at over 1,000 pounds each.

Greenwood/Woodstock for packing five out of five cardboard containers weighing in at over 1,000 pounds each.

West Paris for packing four out of five cardboard containers weighing in at over 1,000 pounds and Gould Academy for packing one out of one cardboard container weighing in at over 1,000 pounds.

Packing cardboard containers with over 1,000 pounds is time consuming. Hauling a fully loaded container to the recycling plant in Norway/Paris is cost efficient for the Corporation. We appreciate your efforts.

As the figures show, recycling does pay. Thank you for participation.

Oxford County Democrats

The Oxford County Democrats held their annual Holiday Party and Volunteer Recognition Dinner at the Rumford Eagles Hall on Thursday, Dec. 14, with Governor John E. Baldacci attending to thank the many area volunteers that worked so hard for his re-election.

Also in attendance were Maine Democratic Party Chair Ben Dudley, Party Vice-chair Marianne Stevens, Jess Knox, chair of the Democrat's Coordinated Campaign, former House Assistant Majority Leader Bob Duplessie, and Maggie Allen, executive director of the Maine Democratic Party.

Following a dinner of chicken pie and holiday desserts, Rep. John Patrick welcomed the attendees to the event and Oxford County Chair Cathy Newell recognized the individual candidates. "Our candidates are our number one volunteers," Newell stated. "The months of hard work they, and their families, put into their campaigns are really astounding."

She singled out the work of Pam Pace and Sue Waterhouse in running the Rumford Area Democratic Office, and the efforts of Jan Kubiak and Hillary Ware in the Norway Office. Newly elected office holders attending were state Senator Bruce Bryant, Rep. John Patrick, Rep. Timothy Carter, Sheriff-elect Wayne Gallant, Register of Deeds Jane Rich, and County Treasurer Mary Ann Prue. Rep. Terry Hayes sent her regrets as she was in Caribou visiting her son's school. The campaign efforts of Marge Medd, Roy Gedat, Reggie Arsenault, Marlee Turner, Kate Smith, Jim Bradley, and Wade Rainey were recognized with great appreciation by the party leaders.

Swearing-in Ceremony
The Oxford County Democrats will host a Reception and Swearing-in Ceremony for Sheriff-elect Wayne Gallant of Rumford, County Treasurer Mary Ann Prue of Rumford and Register of Deeds Jane

Rich of Andover at the Hotel Harris on Congress Street in Rumford on Monday, Jan. 1, at 2 p.m.

"The historic and beautifully restored Hotel Harris will provide a festive locale for the event," Oxford County Democratic Chair Cathy Newell stated. "We are pleased that Arthur and Jean Muse are making the setting available. Both the Boiler Room Restaurant and the Island Indulgence Spa will be open during the event to give attendees a good look at the new businesses the hotel has attracted to Rumford."

The Swearing-in Ceremony will include music, remarks, and the administration of the oaths of office. It will be followed by refreshments in the Boiler Room Restaurant. The event is open to county and municipal officials, and to friends and supporters of Gallant, Prue and Rich. The preliminary list of hosts for the event includes: Senator Bruce Bryant, Rep. John Patrick, Cathy Newell, Marden Seavey, Roy Gedat, and Joanne Morse.

KANTELES TO PLAY AT NEW YEAR'S BETHEL—The Maine Kanteles, a group of ten women of Finnish heritage from western and central Maine, brings enjoyable entertainment to the evening through singing and musical instruments. Members of the group, including Bethel's own Barbara Honkala, play the kantele, a traditional Finnish lap-harp with a 2000 year history rooted in the folklore of the "Kalevala," the national epic of Finland. This is one of several performances available during New Year's Bethel along with an evening of music, contra dancing, humor, magic and much more. Greetings for the '06-'07 winter season! We'd like to reintroduce ourselves as a resource we hope can help serve your needs.

Sunday River Christian Ministry is a group of joy-filled, dedicated Christians who have worshiped at Sunday River since October 1999. We are skiers, boarders, and walkers.

Our special Christmas Eve Candlelight Service will be held again at 7:30 p.m. in front of the fireplace on the third floor, Barker Base Lodge at Sunday River Ski Resort. The surrounding ski slopes have snow and add to the cozy setting.

The Rev. Don Coverdale leads us in praise, prayer, and peace while the angelic voices

How to find us — Follow signs on Route 2/26 to Sunday River Ski Resort; follow signs and turn left toward Barker Mountain Base Lodge; restrooms are in the bottom level; stairs to the third floor are in the main level; the cafeteria will be closed but refreshments will be served at our gathering.

Casual clothing is encouraged. Identified SRCM board of directors' members will assist you.

Free, softcover Athlete's Bible will also be available.

Please call SRCM voice-message at 824-5896 for more information.

Merry Christmas, happy holidays, and may peace be with you and your loved ones!

The Oxford Hills Travelers will be attending the fabulous "Smucker's Stars on Ice" show at 7:30 p.m. at the Portland Civic Center on Saturday, March 24. The Cyr bus will leave at 4 p.m. from the old Ames Plaza and will return at 11 p.m.

The Emmy Award-Winning "Smucker's On Ice" presents "Double Exposure: The Many Lives of Figure Skaters." For the past twenty years, Olympic and figure-skating icon Scott Hamilton has thrilled audiences with Stars on Ice. This year's all-new production will be co-headlined by the world's most distinguished skating stars including 2002 Olympic Pair champions Jamie Salé and David Pelletier, Olympic Men's champion Alexei Yagudin, World Champion Todd Eldredge, Japanese Ladies Champion Yuka Sato, British Champion Steven Cousins and Canadian Champion Jennifer Robinson plus many other stars.

In Double Exposure, Hamilton pulls back the curtain to reveal the lives of the skaters themselves. Enhanced by a broad spectrum of popular music, intricate lighting, dynamic choreography, and state-of-the-art technology, audiences will be witness to the skaters' secret wishes, personal goals and ultimate dreams in a candid and quick-witted format etched to be nothing less than the epitome of "cool."

The cost of this spectacular show is $76 per person. This includes the cost of the bus and the ticket to the show. Super will be on your own at the Maine Mall area. Please send your $40 deposit now so as to reserve your seat. Call Pat 748-8513 to put your name on the reservation list and then send your deposit to Pat Pulkkinen, 2 Hooper Ledge Road, South Paris, ME 04281. Seating will be assigned in order of deposit received.

Winthrop 51, Telstar 49 (OT); Dec. 18—Telstar scorers: Bryce Walker 17, Joel Putnam 8, Jon Sabins 6, Kyle Maines 6, Gavin Broomhall 6. Telstar battled back from a 22-9 halftime deficit.

Wiscasset 82, Telstar 45; Dec. 14—Telstar scorers: Bryce Walker 10, Joel Putnam 10, Ryan Philbrick 8. "Down by only 4 at halftime, the second half belonged to Wiscasset," said coach David Berry. "Nine players scored in this foul-filled game."

High School Girls' Varsity Basketball

Telstar 41, Wiscasset 37; Dec. 15—Telstar's Esther Pew and Josie Reiss hit key free throws in the closing minute to put Telstar on top. Bailey Davis scored 15 points and Abby Hutchins 8 in this MVC matchup. Pew grabbed 8 rebounds, while Brianna Douglass pulled down 6 boards and made 3 steals for the Rebels, who are now 2-1. Reiss made 4 steals in the winning effort, and Megan Smith contributed 5 rebounds. "We didn't come out strong at the beginning of the game, but had spurts at the right times, including the crucial run at the end of the game. We're still getting used to each other. We're happy to be 2-1 at this point." — coach Kelly Dole.

From Gould Academy

In a letter to the Gould Community on Friday, Head of School Daniel A. Kunkle announced that Tim LaVallee will retire from the Gould Sunday River Program (GSR) at the end of the school year.

LaVallee is the GSR Competition Program Director, Head J3 coach, and is one of the founders of the GSR Program. LaVallee's forty-year career has included coaching with the U.S. Ski Team, the University of Colorado-Boulder, Bates College, and two terms at Gould Academy.

In 1994, LaVallee returned to Gould Academy and joined with then Gould Headmaster William P. Clough and Sunday River Vice President Bob Harkins to create GSR with the goal of developing a nationally competitive program.

Mr. Kunkle recounted LaVallee's successes in his letter. "Since its inception, GSR has produced two World Junior Champions, several National All-Americans, GSR athletes also have gone on to the Canadian National Team and the U.S. Ski Team. The program Tim has built promotes a knowledge and love of the sport that has propelled sixteen of its alums into professions within the ski industry ranging from the coaching staff of the U.S. Ski Team to Head of Junior Racing for Tecnica/volk.

Kunkle continued, "During his time at Gould, 'Coach,' as Tim is affectionately called by his athletes, has left an indelible mark on the skiers and riders who have come up through the GSR program and spent countless hours of their young lives with him on mountain slopes of several continents. Those athletes developed their natural talent under Tim's guidance and also learned invaluable life lessons about dedication, perseverance, and the pursuit of excellence. Tim has achieved coaching success at every level of the sport, from NEPSAC and USSA championships, to NCAA Championships, to World Cup winners."

The search for LaVallee's successor is already underway and Kunkle stated that the goal of the search is to hire "... an exceptionally qualified coach and athletic leader, capable of guiding (Gould's) student-athletes as they develop their talent and excel at the highest levels of their sports." Kunkle promised that LaVallee's successor will also "possess the vision and experience to lead the country's top independent school on-snow program."

From Western Maine University and Community College Center

WMUCC will offer a course in conflict resolution from the University of Maine at Augusta (UMA) taught by popular instructor Dr. Sarah Walton. The course, which will begin on Jan. 19, will meet Friday evenings from 7 to 9:45 via interactive television (ITV) throughout the spring semester.

The course studies conflict resolution with a focus on the helping professions. Students will discuss and practice the techniques of conflict resolution with individuals and groups.

Conflict Resolution is a social science elective in UMA's Mental Health and Human Services degree program. But as a normal part of human relationships, the practical skills of negotiation, advocacy and mediation are important to people in many career fields.

"People in all walks of life can benefit from a course that helps improve the way we handle conflict," said Nikki Abbott, director of WMUCC. We are pleased to be able to offer Dr. Walton's important course to our students and to the entire community."

In addition to WMUCC in South Paris, the course will be offered at the ITV site at Telstar Regional High School in Bethel.

For more information about Conflict Resolution and the other spring semester courses available, please contact: Nikki Abbott or Shannon Moxcey at 743-9322 or visit: www.learn.maine.edu.

SCHOOL NEWS FROM AROUND THE DISTRICT

Students Break A World Reading Record with Charlotte's Web

On Wednesday, Dec. 13 the students and staff at Woodstock School participated in "Break A World Reading Record" with Charlotte's Web, by E. B. White. Walden Media set out to break the record for the "Most People Reading Aloud Simultaneously in Multiple Locations" by asking people to sign up and read a passage at exactly noon on Dec. 13. The last record was broken in 2004 with 155,528 people reading William Wordsworth's poem "Daffodils."

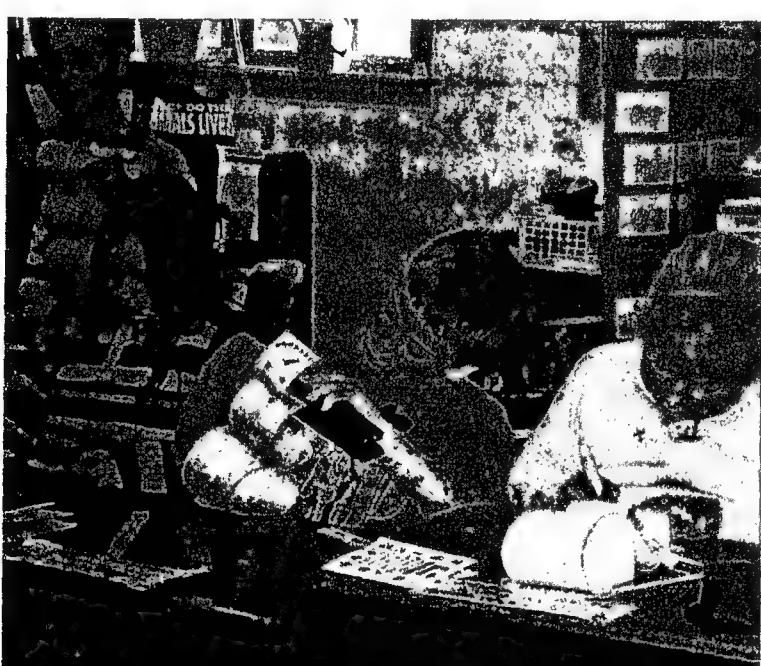

Mrs. House and Mrs. Littlehale decided to register their school and participate in the event. They had to find officials in the community to be registration and independent witnesses to certify the event was conducted correctly, and also find a lead reader for the group. Greenwood school board members J. Walter Brough and Richard Melville along with Greenwood selectmen Loretta Mikols and Wayne Hakala were kind enough to share their time as registration witnesses. Greenwood Town Manager Kim Starks and Woodstock Town Manager Vern Maxfield were also gracious enough during this busy season to be independent witnesses. Dr. David Murphy, Superintendent of MSAD44, was asked to be the lead reader because he loves to read to children.

Leading up to the event students and teachers worked on activities related to Charlotte's Web and practiced reading the passage. On Wednesday, the students were ready and raring to go when the clock counted down. What a beautiful sound to hear them all reading in unison! The passage they read was filled with "expression" so it was really enjoyable to hear their voices changing with each exciting word. (Here is some of the 3-page passage, which begins on page 35. ("Salutations!" said the voice. Wilbur jumped to his feet. "Salu-what?" he cried. "Salutations!" repeated the voice. "What are they and where are you?" screamed Wilbur. "Please, please, tell me where you are. And what are salutations?")

It looks like the record might have been "SHATTERED". There were over 540,000 people participating at 2,451 sites, in 50 states and 28 countries. The Woodstock School registered 65 students and staff and was one of 10 sites in the State of Maine participating. The final verification won't come until probably February, but Walden Media is quite certain they will break the record.

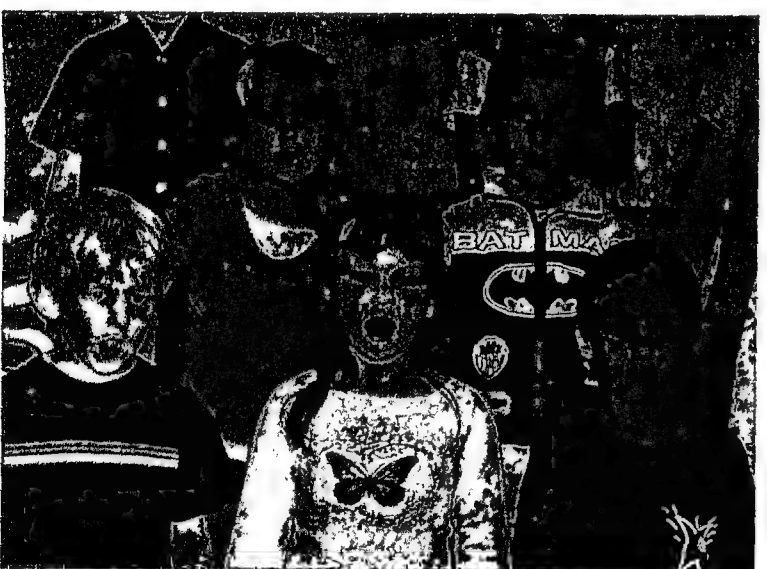

To commemorate the event the Woodstock PTA is going to purchase a copy of Charlotte's Web for each student and put a bookmark in the front with the details. They will also get a beautiful certificate and bookmark courtesy of Walden Media. What a wonderful memory for everyone to carry with them throughout the year! A final surprise for the students came on Wednesday when Mrs. Littlehale announced to the students that they were all going to see the movie Charlotte's Web.

Woodstock Elementary School recently enjoyed their annual "Holidays Around the World". Students have a passport and travel to different countries (classrooms) to learn their holiday traditions. They learn the greeting for "Merry Christmas" in different languages, the countries location in the world, their flag, some folk tales or stories about their customs, taste favorite dishes, and do a craft that has some meaning to their traditions. Last year, students learned about Sweden, Greece, France, Mexico, China, and Africa. This year, they are learning about Australia, England, Finland, Germany, Costa Rica, and Italy.

At far left: First-graders Madison Hayes and Mykia Bennet are working on a Star made of straw for Finland.

Left: Fourth-graders Spencer Robinson, Aislinn Forbes, Liam Gallagher, and Anne Cushman are making a snowman out of paper. Because Australia has no snow they make their snowmen out of different materials.

Left to right: Kayla Cole, Katie Mills, Zoey Perham, Nik Conrad, and Kasey Smith display the projects they made and the costumes they wore for their presentations of The Lion, The Witch, and the Wardrobe, which they read in Mr. Emery's 5th grade language class at Andover Elementary School.

Legislators Spend Time in Local Classrooms School Health Programs the Focus of Lawmaker Visits

Local lawmakers went back to school on Dec. 14, visiting MSAD #44 and learning about its many successful efforts to help students live healthy and active lives. The visit was part of a statewide effort by Maine's Healthy Maine Partnerships to educate new and returning lawmakers about school and community efforts to reduce tobacco use, improve nutrition, and increase physical activity among Maine citizens.

Barbara Russell is the School Health Coordinator for MSAD #44 and coordinated the visit by Representative Tim Carter and Senator Bruce Bryant. Russell and Superintendent David Murphy initiated the visit with an overview of the district's Coordinated School Health Program. Russell then guided lawmakers on a tour that included a school hot lunch with Elaine Ferland's fourth grade class at Woodstock Elementary School. The students shared knowledge gained from the tobacco prevention program, Tar Wars, and their activities for the recent Maine Alcohol Awareness Day. Mrs. Ferland later explained that the Tar Wars program brings in a health professional from Swift River Health Care to present the health consequences of tobacco use. The students used what they had learned to make posters for a statewide contest on tobacco prevention. The tour then proceeded to Telstar High School to observe Steve Keane's semester-long fitness class, where students are involved in a variety of creative activities designed to improve their health-related fitness. Students are required to participate in progressive declining calisthenics and aerobic activities that raise their heart rate into their target exercise zone. Results so far include shedding some extra pounds and increasing stamina. The final stop was a visit with two student members of the district's School Health Advisory Council. Senior Kelsie Hanscom and sophomore Peggy DePasquale shared their experiences on the council. They have had the opportunity to give their perspective and advice on issues concerning school nutrition, bullying, the best use for Safe and Drug-Free Schools federal monies, and health education in general.

School Health Coordinators like Barbara Russell work with students, faculty, parents, school administrators, and community members to improve student health and learning. Primary strategies include education as well as school policy and environmental change. "Classroom teachers have recognized the need and have stepped up to include classroom activities that promote physical activity, nutrition, tobacco prevention, and other health-related issues," stated Russell.

Advocates for the prevention of chronic disease are also strong supporters of this approach. "School Health Coordinators are a vital part of Maine's efforts to fight obesity and keep kids from getting addicted to tobacco products," remarked Becky Smith, Director of the Maine Coalition on Smoking or Health. "Unfortunately, only 20% of school districts have School Health Coordinators on staff. We look forward to the day when all Maine students can enjoy the health benefits of this important program."

Mrs. Sabin's class has been tracking the Crescent Park Ambassador Bear to Southeast Asia as he travels with the Library of Vietnam Rotary project. The class is pictured here with Cynthia Moran as she prepares for a three-week trip to Vietnam and surrounding areas.

Big Truck Music and Magic

The Black Diamond Family Entertainment Series kicks off its season of superb performances with Rebecca Frezza and Big Truck Music on December 27 and The Magic of Lyn on December 30.

Kids love to hop and sing to music, but what happens when they outgrow the songs of the nursery and aren't quite old enough for contemporary Rock? On December 27, join Rebecca Frezza and Big Truck Music to find out. With a sound infused with Pop Culture and traditional Rock influences, Rebecca Frezza provides kids with music that explores a wide range of styles - songs that sound like grown-up music but with messages that speak directly to them. Before Rebecca Frezza began rocking the younger set, she was a high-kicking hooper working toward her dream of performing on Broadway. From her roots in musical theatre and work as a children's music educator, she has developed into an award-winning children's music singer and songwriter. Along the way, Rebecca gathered together an impressive group of musicians which she appropriately named "Big Truck" after one of her early "hit" songs, and began touring regionally. Her successes garnered an invitation to appear on NOGGIN's preschool music program eventually leading to the production of two music videos that now appear regularly on both "Jack's Big Music Show" and "Move To the Music."

Then, on December 30, you're invited to witness firsthand The Magic of Lyn's unique brand of magic guaranteed to capture the imaginations of children and adults alike. From the grandeur of New York's Lincoln Center to the glitter of Atlantic City, Lyn Dillies has captivated audiences with her spellbinding powers of prestidigitiation. She has been hailed as the finest female magician in the land as well as one of America's top illusionists, period. The Magic of Lyn is a show filled with eye-defying illusions, hypnotic lighting, hot music, and most magical of all, the enchanting personality of Ms. Lyn Dillies.

Both shows are at 7:00 PM in the Grand Ballroom of the Grand Summit Resort Hotel at Sunday River Ski Resort. Tickets for these family events are $4.00 for children (6-12) and adults, $6.00 in advance or $6 and $8 at the door. Tickets may be purchased on-mountain at the South Ridge Welcome Center, the Snow Cap Inn and the Grand Summit Hotel front desk or at Books & Things in Bethel. For further information you may call (207) 824-3575.

It's always wise to call ahead

Listings in The Citizen's weekly Community Calendar are compiled from a wide variety of sources. While we do our utmost to ensure the reliability of the information presented here, we recognize that when dealing with such a large volume of material, some inaccuracies will occasionally creep in. And in other cases, a sponsoring organization's plans may change between the time The Citizen is printed and the event is held. Accordingly, we strongly urge our readers to call ahead to verify the details of any event they plan to attend. Doing so will greatly reduce the chance of disappointment or needless inconvenience.

Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

Plans for New Year's Bethel are set for Dec. 31 with a wide variety of entertainment (music, humor, magic and contraband), marshmallow roasting on the common, sleigh rides, a dragon parade for children and much more. Visit the society's website to learn more at www.bethelhistorical.org.

Sponsors are still sought for the event at various levels. Visit our website for more information on how you can help keep this family oriented, chemical-free event one of the highlights of the season. Contributions are tax deductible.

Among the most recent sponsors are Walter and Carol Hatch at the Patron Level ($200 or more), Contributors (under $100) include the following: Ted Bush, S. Dennis, Mass.;

Jaqueline Van Leuven, Bethel; June Abbott, Bethel; Stan Howe, Bethel; Marvin and Tineke Ouwinga, Bethel; Janet and Frank Vogt, Bethel; Norm Ferguson, Hanover; Eleanor Pugliese, Bethel; Susan and Bill Herlihy, Newry; Richard and Lorrie Hoeh, Albany Township; Rebecca P. Kendall, Bethel; Doug and Robin Zinchuk, Bethel; Business Sponsor: Rivendell House, Bethel.

Much appreciation is extended to all of the above for their generosity in helping make New Year's Bethel possible. All sponsors will be listed at each venue on Dec. 31.

Society Annual Fund
The Bethel Historical Society 2006 Annual Fund Campaign passed the $26,000 level from over 425 donors last week. Among the most recent contributors included the following: Charlotte Gill, Anchorage, Alaska; Joshua Paul Head, Bethel, in honor of his parents: Joanne Mooney, London, UK; Janet Richardson,

Portland; Colleen F. Boyd, West Bethel, in memory of Mrs. Albert Bennett; Adaline Clough, Bethel; Lynn and Joe Arizzi, Bethel; Joanna and Josiah Drummond, Bethel; Barbara and Rudi Honkala, Bethel; Olive Risko, Bryant Pond; Mary Ann Ashcraft, Westminster, Md.; Gwyneth and Ken Bohr, Bethel; Thomas and Pauline Carey, Greene, in memory of Ina B. Carey; Sylvia and Norm Clanton, Bethel; Jim and Lucia Owen, Stoneham; Suzanne and John Schneider, Salem, Mass.; Eben and Barbara Freeman, Bethel; Joan S. Goodnew, Atlanta, Ga.; Robert and Anne Greenleaf, North Scituate, R.I., in memory of S. Eldon Greenleaf; Taylor Thompson and Valerie Uber, Jamaica Plain, Mass.; Robert and Pauline Davis, Bethel; Mr. and Mrs. William Hamill, Richmond, Va.; Alden and Mabel Kennett, Bethel; Bunny McBride, Manhattan, Kan.; Nancy Coan, Washington, DC; Bruce and Shelia Lily, Bethel; D. A. Wilson, & Co., Bethel, in memory of Lester

Butters; Victor Coolidge, Bethel; Al and Lee Barth, Paris; Mary Eichel, Auburn, Mass., in memory of Robert Eichel; Patricia Lee Jackson, Barstow, Calif.; June Abbott, Bethel; Wende Gray, Bethel, in memory of Pearl McMillin; Marvin and Tineke Ouwinga, Bethel, in memory of Judy Haskell; Bruce and Shirley Powell, Hanover; Dave and Ann Morton, Bethel; David and Ann-etta Cannon, Preston, Conn., in honor of Florence Hastings; Adolf and Eileen Honkala, Richmond, Va.; John Jacobson, Jr., Pompton Plains, N.J.; Dr. and Mrs. John Trinward, Waterford, in memory of Nancy Trinward; Sylvia Wight, Waterford, in memory of Willard Wight; Ed and Amy Yasko, Bethel; Janet and Dexter Stowell, Bethel.

Much appreciation is due all of the above for their generosity. Those wishing to make a tax-deductible gift before the end of the year should send it to the society at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, ME 04217-0012.

AND THE WINNER IS—The Bethel Lions Club recently sponsored a 50/50 raffle to raise funds to provide Christmas gifts for local families in need. About $1,000 was raised, according to Lion Gert Friel. On Friday, Bethel Town Manager Scott Cole (right) drew the winning ticket. Barry Hallett was the winner. Looking on are Friel and Dave Bartlett.

BEFORE BUYING A HOME!
Where do you start when you are ready to buy a home? Before you begin looking for a home, you have to make some decisions. You need to decide what is important to you when purchasing your home. Before starting out on your home search it is a good idea to sit down and develop a list of what is important and what would you like in your new home. Your list could include schools, neighborhood, amenities, number of bedrooms, number of baths, a basement, a separate dining room, 2-story family room or foyer, one level ranch plan, master bedroom on the main level, special financing, seller willing to cover closing costs and the list goes on and on.
An experienced buyer real estate agent can help you through the process. There is no such thing as a perfect house, therefore once you have developed your list you should begin to prioritize it. You can prioritize into, "must have", "should have" and "would be nice to have". By having a clear understanding what you want in your new home, and the priority of those items, you will be in a much better position to decide whether you want to put an offer on a house you see and like. It is also a good idea to consider whether you want to purchase a new or pre-owned home.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

EXPERIENCE: KEY TO PROFESSIONAL SERVICE

Knowledge and experience are what competent Realtors offer homeowners when they are retained to handle the marketing and sale of homes. Experience is the key word, as the most valuable knowledge is obtained in handling a wide variety of situations encountered in the home selling process.

It's particularly important for owners to seek out a thoroughly seasoned Realtor in today's market. There are more recently licensed Realtors and sales associates vying for business from home sellers and buyers than ever before. The National Association of Realtors recently announced they have a million members - an all-time record high number. Many of the new members are hard working folks, but they are still in the learning stage of their career. Smart consumers seek out a Realtor who is past this stage. They want a Realtor with enough experience to be a competent professional.

When it comes to handling a family's biggest financial transaction, homeowners need and deserve a Realtor with a solid background of success-proven experience. Home sales transactions are more complex today than in past years. New laws and regulations must be observed if a smooth transaction is to be consummated and after sale risks minimized. That calls for professional guidance.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771

Obituaries

ALBERT L. ROBERTS
Albert Loring Roberts, 69, passed away Friday, Dec. 15, 2006 at his home in Bryant Pond, after a brief illness.

He was born at his grandparents' home in Woodstock, the son of Wendall and Alice Felt Roberts on March 21, 1937. He was the middle child in a family of 12. He attended schools in Woodstock and Locke Mills.

He worked at Gilbert Manufacturing in Locke Mills for 42 years, formerly known as Ekco Tebbets, and retired in 1999. He married Peggy Henley in Bethel on June 1, 1957. They had three children and resided in Bryant Pond for 33 years.

He was an avid hunter, fisherman and gardener. He loved hiking through the mountains, berry picking and spending time with his family and friends.

He is survived by two daughters, Nancy Morgan of Bryant Pond and Sherry Wentworth and her husband Marc of Bryant Pond; a son, Michael and his wife Holly of South Paris; three sisters, Elsie Seames and husband Peter of Greenwood, Nonie Cole and husband Carlton of Greenwood and Marilyn Howe and husband Wayne of Bryant Pond; four brothers, Leslie and wife Georgena of Norway, James and wife Anne of Fryeburg, Carl and friend Sylvia McNally of Danville and Duane Roberts of Greenwood; eight grandchildren, Joshua Morgan, Todd Walker, Ridge Latham, Jamie and Kyle Roberts, Mark Huston, Lindsey Roberts and Marcus Wentworth; and several nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by his parents; three brothers, Stanley, Philip and Kenneth; and one sister, Florence Seames.

A private, graveside family service will be held at the family's convenience. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the National Audubon Society or the Sportsmen's Alliance of Maine.
